

Indian Expert Says China Hopes To Conquer World

by TOM TAUSKY

"China believes itself to be the master race and definitely thinks of eventual world domination" Dr. S. Chandrasekhar, Director of the Indian Institute for Population Studies told a McGill audience yesterday night.

Dr. Chandrasekhar, author of numerous books was presented by the Department of Sociology and Anthropology in the first stop of his North American tour. He began his speech on "The Problems of an Increasing Population in Communist China" by stating that large populations only constitute a problem when resources are not adequate to minimal population needs.

"There are three common attitudes to the problem", Dr. Chandrasekhar continued. "There are those who believe that you must either expand and develop resources or cut down on the birth-rate, or prepare to face starvation and disaster in the very near future. This is the school of thought to which I belong."

VATICAN - KREMLIN AXIS

"Then there are those who blame the problem on the existing economic and social order. These fall into two classes, and may be called the Vatican-Kremlin axis. They believe that external remedies such as birth-control are unnecessary."

"Then there are those who question population statistics, and claim that with modern technology, it doesn't matter anyway. But I contend that such devices as atomic energy are too unpredictable and uncontrollable to be taken into consideration."

Turning to China Dr. Chandrasekhar said that:

"In 1955, a tremendous famine led to an ideological debate as to whether family planning should be adopted. The result was a massive campaign for birth-control-huge demonstrations of contraceptive techniques were viewed by 340 million Chinese, who were required to pass comprehension tests. Chinese were told that moral comrades should restrict themselves to three children."

REVERSAL

"Two weeks later, this policy was abruptly and completely reversed; Comrades were told to have six, seven or more children and that citizens in a Communist state should be first and last producers, not consumers. The programme was reversed, I think, because it was a virtual admission that Communism could not cope with the country's problems through ideological methods, and was thus almost a vote of no confidence in Communism". Dr. Chandrasekhar concluded.

"The result has been that China now has a net annual population increase of 22 million per year — the equivalent of a new Canada and Ceylon every year."

"China's next solution was the Commune system, instituted in 1953, and designed to 'liberate' women for the labour force. People live in settlements whose activities are directed completely by a loudspeaker. There is absolutely no privacy and no solitude; the work-day begins at 5:30 in the morning, and when it is concluded, there follows compulsory entertainment."

"In the evening there are daily 'self-abasement sessions' at which everyone must confess their sins and beg forgiveness of the state. Also the Peking newspaper is read word for word over the loudspeaker and must be listened to intently, as there are often quizzes afterwards."

"Family life has been virtually abolished; marriages are celebrated with a one-day honeymoon after which the couple must return to work; children are taken away from their parents at birth and are brought up by the state. This system has spread to most parts of China, but in spite of its coercive methods, production is hardly keeping up with population increase."

MCWA Will Analyze Democracy In America

The McGill Conference on World Affairs (MCWA) will run this year from November 21 to 24 at Redpath Hall.

The students attending this session will represent more than thirty universities from across the United States and Canada. The topic of this year's conference will be: "Democracy in a Changing World: A Study of North American Society."

SCHOLARS

A number of distinguished scholars will address the Conference, among them being Professor Watkins, formerly of McGill, and now of Yale, Henry Kissinger of the International Affairs Centre at Harvard, and Professor Max Lerner, Dean of Graduate Studies at Brandeis University, and recently a panel member during one of the Nixon-Kennedy debates.

Professor Watkins will give his address on the evening of the 21st., Mr. Kissinger on the evening of the 22nd., and Professor Lerner on the evening of the 23rd.

OPPORTUNITY

The Conference will have a rare opportunity to consider a special and intriguing aspect of "Democracy in a Changing World", one that touches upon the affairs of all of us. Several important figures in the realm of French-Canadian affairs will form a panel on the morning of the 24th. to discuss "Democracy in French Canada".

The participants in this panel will be Professor Mason Wade, the author of what is now a standard reference book, "The French Canadians"; the Abbe Dion, Director of the Labour Relations Centre at Laval; Professor Paul Bouchard, also of Laval, and the author of "Québec Sous le Régime Duplessis"; and the editor of the Montreal La Presse, Mr. Jean Louis Gagnon.

An innovation introduced this year by the MCWA chairman, Daniel Mettarlin, will be the presence of "technical advisers",

It is hoped to induce outstanding persons in business, labour, and politics — as, for instance, some local political organizers — to submit themselves to questioning by the various study groups made up from the Conference delegates.

CKGM Program Director Protests "Star" Policies

CKGM program director Dan Tyler charged here Tuesday that his radio station's battle with the Montreal Star springs from the fact that CKGM "has been taking advertising away from the Star".

Speaking to a meeting of the Union's Radio and Public Address Committee, Tyler also alleged that the Star "has no tendency toward altruism" and "no apparent editorial policy".

Animosity between the newspaper — largest English-language daily in Quebec — and the radio station erupted into the open after CKGM's bid for an FM license was rejected by the Board of Broadcast Governors some weeks ago.

PAPER'S CLAIM

The Star launched a claim that the station is not fulfilling its obligations to its listeners, and, according to Tyler, "lambasted us for not subscribing to the presentation we said we would" (when the station owners sought the license under which they now broadcast).

Tyler complained several letters had appeared in the Star backing the newspaper's stand, but only one letter supporting the radio station (and written by its owner, Geoff Stirling) had appeared. (On yesterday's editorial page, the Star ran several pro-CKGM letters.)

The CKGM program director contended in his talk here that he knows hundreds of letters taking the station's side were sent in but not printed.

In answer to a question about the authenticity of the letters already published, by the Star, Tyler replied: "We do not accuse them of writing their own letters, but only that they are chosen their own way."

Explaining CKGM's alleged "taking of Star advertising", and calling this "hidden crux of the Star's anti-CKGM campaign", Tyler said "the whole matter is a question of economics. Our salesmen know their product — they know what can be done on radio."

"The Star issued a brochure on advertising which stated that only 25 p.c. of Montreal's population listens to radio. Actually, we cover 90 p.c. of the population, with a different 25 p.c. listening at different times of the day", Tyler stated.

1,630,000 LISTENERS

"1,630,000 persons in Montreal listen to radio at some time each day, a recent survey showed. The Star apparently wrote off all those people who listen in cars. The cost per reaching each thousand people is not $2.67, as the brochure claimed, but only 27 cents," Tyler protested.

Then, for good measure, he added the old saying, "Figures don't lie, but liars figure."

"The Star is big," he continued, "and all the other Montreal stations are afraid to join the fight, but we will continue."

"We have a good cause — we are honest, have the facts, and are masters of our own convictions — why should we be afraid?"

"We are the first station in Canada to take a whack at a newspaper... and we're not afraid of what we say to convince people to buy radio."

Medical Test

All students are required by the University to present themselves for examination by the University Health Service. Failure to do so may result in a fine of twenty-five dollars or, in the second instance, in suspension from the University.

First year students can make appointments with Health service for general clinical examinations and routine laboratory tests. Students must comply with this requirement by December 1st, failure to do so will incur a fine of $25.00. After December 15th, the student will be suspended from the University.

Medical examination is also necessary for students who have attended university for six continuous years. Every student who has spent one or more academic years away from the University must be re-examined the year he re-registers.

Chest X-ray examinations are necessary for other students in each academic year.

Tripping on a Turnabout

Vice-President Richard Milhous Nixon is a unique political phenomenon. The way he shifts his position, chameleon-like, on key issues, is singularly remarkable. And even more remarkable is the fact that these turnabouts hardly alter his public image.

If the late Senator Joseph McCarthy had decided one day to support a socialist for high office, or if Adlai Stevenson voted against integration or endorsed a loyalty oath for university educators, a radical metamorphosis in the electorate's conception of these two political giants would have inevitably resulted.

Not so with Nixon. The Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States has never been linked to any substantial philosophic outlooks. He has been able to get away, for this very reason, with mutually contradictory policy pronouncements such as the following: "Federal activity and responsibility is inevitable in the field of education," and "Federal aid looks good on paper, but it won't work." And all this without losing any of his following.

But the Vice-President has now carried out a policy reversal that may well turn out to be too much, too soon. After justifying the U-2 spy plane incident, last spring, despite its obvious illegality, on the ground that failure to fly over Soviet territory would have been prejudicial to U.S. security, Mr. Nixon has now attacked Senator Kennedy's proposed Cuba policy on the grounds that it "violates the spirit of the law."

When the Vice-President took his "stand" on the U-2 issue, he sacrificed international law for political capital. On the Cuban issue, he seems prepared to sacrifice the policy he enunciated at the time of the spy plane incident for adherence to international law. He must be doing this because he feels it will bring him votes in next month's election. Many astute political observers feel he is wrong. We hope so. It's about time he tripped on a turnabout.

Letter to the Editors

Honour Society Explains Its Policy

The Scarlet Key Honour Society welcomes the opportunity to clarify its relations with the student body at large.

The Scarlet Key is an honour society. Certain members are appointed for their outstanding contributions to campus life. The remainder are approved for nomination for the same reason and are elected by their fellows. The Key executive is presently preparing a new constitution which will make admission even more rigorous. Our purpose is to sustain continually the highest quality of the membership of the Society in order to realize a primary objective, viz: "To recognize and represent qualities of manhood, courage, honour, excellence, leadership and devotion to duty."

Therefore, what must be the relationship of the Scarlet Key Society to the campus? This is the deeper issue raised. The constitution provides for activities such as welcoming visiting teams and individuals, meeting foreign students, ushering and maintaining order. The Society attempts to carry out these tasks in the light of two important considerations—first, it is an honour society, and second, it has a limited membership (currently 20) whose time is already circumscribed by studies, and other extra-curricular activities. At this point, it would be valuable to consider the cases cited.

The first was the football game, where the Key's duty is to maintain order, a duty which the Society welcomes. The student section used to be the wooden field stands, whereas now students sit in the concrete stands. Formerly, the Scarlet Key remained on duty on the field during the entire game. Under present arrangements, the bulk of students remain in the concrete section at half-time, and only a few "exuberants" descend to the field. This must be considered when we decide to deploy our assignments.

Consequently, the majority of the Key remain in the stands to prevent disorders there, e.g., throwing beer cans. Therefore, only five Scarlet Key were on the field at half-time. We agree these efforts may be better coordinated, and pledge to continue efforts to improve our effectiveness. When our membership is expanded shortly, additional personnel will be assigned to the field. I would like to appeal to the student body to cooperate with the Scarlet Key in these matters.

It must be stressed that as an honour society, the Scarlet Key cannot conduct themselves as "bouncers". The Society uses moral suasion only, never physical force. Police and professional stadium help are present for these purposes.

The suggestion that the Inter Fraternity Council invite two fraternities to maintain order might alleviate the problem somewhat in that the Scarlet Key would have two less fraternities to control.

The question of meeting the MCWA delegates was also raised. 45 universities are expected. The Society is prepared to assist in welcoming the visitors at delegate registration, and to aid at all other MCWA affairs.

However, the function of the Scarlet Key is NOT to replace a reception committee for every activity. Such arrangements are properly the responsibility of MCWA and other committees and not of an honour society.

As a practical matter, it would be far simpler for any activity to leave such chores to the Scarlet Key. However, from the viewpoint of the executive of the Society, there are only 20 to 30 members, all upperclassmen, many of whom are extremely active on campus, e.g. Winter Carnival Chairman, Debating Union President, and it would be unfair to them to approve 45 assignments, during school hours, in a sphere of activities which, in our judgment does not constitute part of our duties as an honour society. This is particularly true in the light of the many requests in areas which are properly within the mandate of the Society.

The Scarlet Key Society will strive to conduct its duties consistent with its existence as an honour society. In our current state of transition, which applies also to procedures for assignment requests, we might be remiss now and then, and we invite this to be brought to our attention. Only in this way can we improve our Society, and meet our obligations with honour. In this way everyone shall "point" to the Scarlet Key with respect and pride.

I look forward to continuing our interesting relations with the "Daily" and thank them, on behalf of the Society for their consideration.

Morty Zuckerman,
President, Scarlet Key Society

UMUN Invites 146 Schools

The ambitious number of 146 invitations to the 1961 University Model United Nations have been sent on their way. At McGill the SEC has appointed two representatives to sit on the UMUN executive.

Lynne Kenny, B.A. 4, and Peter Dawson, Med. 1, will serve as McGill's representatives to the Model U.N., which will have its third annual meeting from February 1-4, 1961.

Last year 56 universities (23 of which were from the U.S.) attended the conference. They comprised approximately 250 delegates and more than 20 diplomatic advisers and panelists.

SPONSORS

The previous two conferences were sponsored by McGill, the University of Montreal, Sir George Williams University, and Loyola College. Last year the U.N. Association of Montreal was also a co-sponsor of the mock U.N.

At last year's session the General Assembly Security Council, and the Educational, Social and Cultural Organization were operated.

The UMUN executive expects to be able to fill all 98 seats of the Assembly this year's session.

CONTINUATIONS

They will also continue to run the Security Council and panel discussions. The Executive found, however, that it was not feasible to implement the International Court of Justice or to hold a UNESCO meeting.

Jim Hayes, Chairman of the UMUN executive, said that he hoped representatives would come to the conference from Cambridge to represent the United Kingdom. Soviet Union students, he continued have also shown interest in the project.

This Year Hon. Lester B. Pearson is the honorary President, Hon. Howard Green the honorary Vice-President, and Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker is the honorary patron.

DEFICIT

Speaking of finances, Hayes pointed out that last year's UMUN had a deficit of $4,500. Although the U.N. Association of Montreal had taken over part of the debt, $1,500 was still owed. It was proposed for next year that the delegation fee be raised from $15 to $20 and that the number of each delegation be limited to three.

Hayes said that the UMUN would also seek substantial contributions from the Quebec Department of Education, and that their ultimate aim was to make themselves self-supporting. Last year the UMUN was able to raise $4,000, but contribution will probably be lower this year.

AVOID CANVASSING

"We would like to avoid, as much as possible, the door to door type of canvassing", declared Hayes.

In collecting money this year, the UMUN has asked the SEC for a donation of $250. In a recent meeting Council decided to give only $50 at the present time. This grant will be increased to $250 if and when satisfactory plans for UMUN '61 are presented to the Council.

Novice Trials To Decide U.S. Tourney Debaters

The Novice Intercollegiate Debating Team trials will be held today and tomorrow from 1 to 3:30 pm in the Walter Stewart Room of the Union.

Successful candidates will represent McGill at the Vermont Invitational Tournament during the first term and at the Hofstra College Tournament in New York during the second term.

The trials are open to all who have never debated intercollegiate before, including upperclassmen. Participation in the trials is mandatory for all those who wish to debate intercollegiate or intra-murally at McGill.

All students who wish to enter the novice trials must deliver a five minute speech, either affirmative or negative, on one of the three topics of the day they choose to appear. The Debating Union has explicitly pointed out that only the assigned topics for the day are acceptable.

TOPICS

Today's resolutions are as follows: (1) Resolved that the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all its citizens. (2) Resolved that there should be a truce in the war of the sexes. (3) Resolved that religion divides.

Tomorrow's resolutions will be (1) Resolved that the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all its citizens. (2) Resolved that censorship of reading matter is desirable. (3) Resolved that a wife is more useful than a wheelbarrow.

All candidates will be judged on the effectiveness of their delivery, arguments and material. Judging will be standardized for both days so as to allow each candidate an equal chance.

The Senior Intercollegiate Debating team to represent McGill at various American and Canadian tournaments will be chosen Thursday Nov. 3rd.

Candidates for the team will be required to deliver a five minute refutation of a tape-recorded affirmative presentation on this year's United States National topic. The topic is: "Resolved that the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all its citizens".

Handbooks, on the above topic, to serve as guides and aids to those preparing the debate, have been made available by the Debating Union. Two copies of the handbook may be found at the reserve desk in Redpath Library. Another copy is available in the Periodical room.

Indians Develop Future Redmen

by BOB COHEN

Every year the University athletic department sends out a comprehensive pamphlet to Redmen supporters. The ten page effort serves to introduce football personnel to the reader. Dave Copp, the head coach of the McGill Indians, is described as doing "an excellent job of preparing the Indians for their future promotion to the senior football team". This simple testimonial outlines the very reason for the Indians' existence.

The reader might scoff at the chances of any of the Youngsters but a quick look at the past record will place a little confidence into these skeptics.

Within the past four years, seven topnotch footballers have come out of Indian ranks. Walley Barrie, All Broekvelt, John Cleghorn, All Mackenzie, Dave Martin and Dan Uniat have all come up from the intermediate. All are important starters on this year's winning football team and all have proven the worth of the junior football program.

NEXT YEAR

With this season's play just finished, the football board of strategy has already started to assess future prospects. Several names worth remembering have come up.

Marvex Blauer, who was out late by the Redmen this year, looks like a good bet. Dave Morton, just 18 years old, is considered to have an excellent chance. Line coach Tom Gallagher considers the 80 minutes man a red hot prospect. Pablo Madaniw, a key performer, is "sure to make it." Fraser Allan was out practising with the Redmen last night. Ray Lawson was considered a top player by his teammates. Ian Motherwell was a big gun going two ways. Pete Rule and John Smith were also regarded as having good chances. Mal Burness' name popped up.

CLINIC PAYS OFF

The spring football clinic (Daily, May 24, 1960) definitely seems to be a paying proposition. The likes of John Sabo, Gary Cullen, Wade Kenny, Ian Motherwell, and Ross Myers have been contacted through the clinic. Several boys have become interested in McGill through the efforts of the annual All-Star Dinner which is jointly sponsored by the University and the Gazette. Amongst them are John Lashinger and most of the players from the clinic.

Poloists Lose 9-6

by LEON JAKOBOVITS

The McGill Intercollegiate Water Polo Team ran into stiff opposition last night in the Currie Pool as they lost out to a very strong East-End Boys Club by a score of 9 to 6.

The two teams were almost perfectly matched in strength as they battled it out in a see-saw game that had the spectators and this reporter jumping on their seats every minute of the game. The East-End Boys were by no means strangers to the Redmen seniors. Bernie "Boum-Boum" Toporowski and Charlie Evelyn starred on the McGill Team a couple of years ago before they graduated. Goldberg, Byers, and Pelagis are old hands that have opposed the Redmen Water Polo Team for a number of years.

SCORING OPENS

The McGill Team opened the scoring early in the first quarter as defenseman Andy Halmay swam the ball up the length of the pool and dropped it in the nets. The excellent defensive play of the Redmen, especially that of Halmay and Morty Bellinsky, kept the East-End Boys scoreless until the end of the quarter. Then the game broke loose and five goals were scored by the two teams in as many minutes as they took turns tallying against the two goal tenders. Half time saw the game deadlocked in a 3 to 3 tie.

Coach Ross Firth tried to fire up his boys and encouraged them to shoot more often against the enemy goal. The East-End Boys intensified their drive in the second half as they took the scoring lead as the Redmen ran into some

The Ski Club has arranged Ski Exercises for anyone wishing to get into condition before the skiing season begins. All those who are interested in attending the Ski School which will take place up North in January are advised to attend these conditioning sessions.

Another interesting ski note is that the WAA Ski House will open in the middle of November.

The Figure Skating Club is holding its inaugural meeting in the RVC Club Room at 1:15 pm. The regular club practices will commence shortly at the Winter Stadium under the coaching of Joan Depass. ## Sports: Chickens JAPAN, Oct. 27 — We're here. Where are you? The News Department can only assume that since the Les Sports did not show up for the proposed touch-football game here in Japan, they wish to default the match. We also assume that they are chicken.

We propose that the game be shifted back to the hardwood playing field and be played therein on Sunday, October 30, 1960 at high noon.

THERE IS A VERY IMPORTANT SOCCER PRACTICE TONIGHT AT 5 PM. THE PRACTICE WILL BE HELD AT UPPER FIELD. THE ENTIRE TEAM IS REQUESTED TO ATTEND. ANYONE ELSE WHO WISHES TO COME IS MOST WELCOME.
